Underwater diving, as a human activity, is the practice of descending below the water's surface to interact with the environment. Immersion in water and exposure to high ambient pressure have physiological effects that limit the depths and duration possible in ambient pressure diving. Humans are not physiologically and anatomically well adapted to the environmental conditions of diving, and ...

Sonar (originally an acronym for sound navigation ranging) is a technique that uses sound propagation (usually underwater, as in submarine navigation) to navigate, communicate with or detect objects on or under the surface of the water, such as other vessels. Two types of technology share the name "sonar": passive sonar is essentially listening for the sound made by vessels; active sonar is ...

Herein, we report a self-powered flexible piezoelectric acoustic sensor (f-PAS) inspired by basilar membrane in human cochlear. The f-PAS covered the voice frequency spectrum via the combination of its low quality (Q) factor and multi-resonant frequency tuning, exhibiting four to eight times higher sensitivity than the conventional condenser sensor.
